The objective of the June 7th training is to help Consortium volunteers and members determine how well a loved one, friend, or neighbor is coping with both the predictable changes caused by aging and/or the unpredictable, yet common challenges faced by anyone who experiences a sudden loss or health crisis. The June 28th training is a free-standing session, which will build on the previous one, to help participants learn how to converse in ways that will promote welcome and effective discussion about what they have observed. Both sessions will be highly interactive.
